ANIMAL TREASURE by Ivan T. Sanderson:

This is a fascinating account of a zoological expedition into tropical West Africa, replete with the lives of strange animals, snakes and insects, many of which have never before been known actually to exist. We share the surprises and wonders of this expedition and strange perfection of jungle life with our genial and eager guide. His amusing prose and beautiful drawings make page after page of wonderful reading.

400 MILLION CUSTOMERS by Carl Crow:

A book about the Chinese: their manners, customs and business methods; a candid book, sympathetic and hilariously amusing; all about the delightful, exasperating absurdities of human nature in China, and why they are often not half so absurd as they seem. The very amusing sketches add greatly to the reader's pleasure.

AMERICAN DREAM by Michael Foster:

What is this American Dream? Perhaps the dream that sent Jean Francis Thrall racing his clipper ship to open new islands in the South, or that tore Joanna Wells out of Puritan background to die under the shadow of the Andes, or that made of John Thrall a pioneer editor fighting for tolerance in the rough and tumble West, that inspired his grandson, Shelby Thrall, with a new will to live. Working contrary destinies, ever present the intangible, whatever it is this time-enriched American dream comes to life with new meaning in the powerful chronicle of three generations of Thralls and of America.

A HOME IN THE COUNTRY by F. F. Van de Water:

This narrative tells the story of how an author and his wife searched for two years for a home in the country and how they finally found it in Vermont, of how they remodelled it and of happy days there in the summer and in winter. This is a book of stable wisdom and of most engaging wit. Many books have been written on the subject of a home in the country, as discovered by city dwellers here and in England. This is one of the best of them.
